CROWDS WITHIN AND WITHOUT THE TENT.

Many years ago an old and much-esteemed citizen had a great aversion to church bells. Unfortunately for him his home was sandwiched between two houses of worship, and he being of a studious nature and not a regular church-goer, the clanging of bells on Sunday mornings and at night rendered him irritable, so much so that he wrote long communications to the Alexandria Gazette urging their abolition. Had he been with us last night he would not have been shocked by bells nor chimed. The clappers hung inanimate. The congregations of the churches were wending their way to the gospel tent on upper King street where Gypsy Smith was to speak. There was no brass band nor other device to attract the piously disposed, and by the time the services were started every seat in the huge tent was occupied, while hundreds stood without and listened to the spiritual songs and sermon. The sides of the tent were opened, so that auditors within and without could hear. The services were of the thrilling nature which was in evidence a week ago when the tent was first thrown open. It was calculated that about one-fourth the population of the city was out, while hundreds from Alexandria and Fairfax counties, and others from Washington and nearby places were present. The presence of many young men in the audience was refreshing.

Within a sea of heads greeted the evangelist. It was doubtless the largest number of persons ever gathered on any occasion in Alexandria. Mr. Smith preached from the query of the Philippians: "What shall I do to be saved?"—and the answer of Paul and Silas.

While the songs were animating and Mr. Smith's discourse thrilling, one of the most touching incidents of the evening was the testimony of Louis C. Barley, Judge of the Corporation Court of Alexandria. The judge is the chairman of the committee financing the revival movement and after having, in a succinct manner, stated the condition of the exchequer, he gave his witness as a follower of Jesus Christ. The judge's words sent thrills through the vast audience, which became so enthused that they voluntarily broke out in applause.

The fruits of Gypsy Smith's campaign in Alexandria are not yet fully apparent, but, from the great interest shown, there is much to strengthen the hope that the effects of his visit to our city will be far-reaching.

The earnest testimony of Judge Barley, we believe, will be followed by that of others, and while we are not hoping for a Pentecostal outpouring, old Alexandria may be surprised at the close of the meetings while singing the old hymn, "Bringing in the Sheaves," to find that many others have received the word with joy.

ed a discourse before the Areopagites, upon Mar's Hill. It being a capital offense to introduce new gods into Greece at that time, as there were already thirty thousand deities in the land, the great apostle took for his text Agnosto Theos—the unknown god. We are told that Dionysius, the Areopagite, was among those who believed. Dionysius, as an Areopagite, was a member of the high court of Athens. Gypsy Smith has been used to bring more fully into the fold a Dionysius of Alexandria. We rejoice to know that he will be among the Lord's jewels at His glorious reappearance.

ANOTHER J. T. HARE.

"I'll split fifty-fifty with you," said a highway robber to W. Stewart Griscom, of Philadelphia after he had held up Mr. Griscom's motor car in a lonely road near Cambridge, Mass., early yesterday and taken $50 from him. Mr. Griscom explained to the highwayman that his wife, who was in the auto, was ill.

During the early part of the last century an individual of the Claude Duval genus known as Jonathan T. Hare, was hanged near Baltimore for highway robbery. Hare's adventures extended all the way from Maryland to New Orleans. His history was interesting, and much of it was given in the Alexandria Gazette of that time. Hare, while a noted highwayman, had soft places in his heart, and when he held up a man he always returned to him money sufficient to carry him to his objective point. If he took a watch from the pocket of one of his victims and found it was a gift from a deceased relative, he would return the timepiece. In opening mail bags he was careful not to disturb letters sealed with black wax. After Hare had been executed a book containing his life and exploits was published. This production passed out of print about the time the civil war was breaking out. A book of the same size, also appeared at that time giving the life of Monroe Edwards, a noted counterfeiter of his day.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Under the above heading the Gazette will be pleased to give reasonable space to any person who desires to make comment upon matters of general interest to the public. A guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the writer of any article submitted for publication will be required in each instance.—Editor Gazette.

FROM A WOMAN WHO DEPLORED REVIVALS.

Editor Gazette:

A church woman who has ever deplored the methods of revivals, wended her way to the big tent on upper King street last night and came home a much chastened woman.

Truly it was a wonderful and inspiring sight!

The huge tent was packed to the utmost, with an overflow of hundreds on the outside. As she looked around at the sea of eager, intent faces, heard the inspiring hymns, sung by the large and splendidly trained choir and then listened to the words of the gypsy preacher, who held the breathless interest of that vast throng, as he told in simple forcible words "What we Must do to be Saved," she wondered if Alexandria fully appreciated this privilege extended her by the Laymen's League, in bringing Gypsy Smith for these services.

And right here she wants to take off her hat to the men of the Laymen's League for their work in making these things possible. To bring together as a unit all of our churches. What a power for good and a help to make "Alexandria For Christ."

And so this "woman who didn't care for revivals," would send his message to those who haven't attended these meetings: Go—Go often—and Go early. Mrs. M. L. S.

NEWS OF THE DAY

According to the Copenhagen Politiken, an airship factory at Frankfort has been destroyed by fire. Four large Zeppelins, almost completed, and fifteen aeroplanes were destroyed.

F. Grover C. Stiner, residing near Baltimore, was killed and his nephew William H. Collins, was slightly injured yesterday morning when a motorcycle they were riding was struck by a train of the Northern Central Railway.

German casualties in the war during the month of August it is said, totaled 240,900. This brings the German total since the beginning of the war, as compiled from the same sources, to 3,375,000. These figures include all the German nationalities, but do not include the naval and colonial casualties.

The condition of Mrs. Annie E. Howe, only sister of President Woodrow Wilson, who has been seriously ill at a New London hotel for a week, was pronounced critical last night by her physician. Virtually no hope is held for her recovery. She is suffering from peritonitis and complications.

Charles E. Hughes' prestige as leader of the Republican party will be fixed by the results of the Maine election today. A badly split party is awaiting apprehensively the returns of that State. The old Guard element is in open revolt. Barred practically from any participation in the campaign, it foresees crushing defeat in November under the campaign methods that have been followed to date.

James O'Hara, a wounded and discharged soldier, of Glasgow, learned the art of bomb throwing at the front and grew callous in regard to results. Early yesterday a crowd of men and women in the rear of his tenement became noisy. O'Hara asked for quiet, and when he received a derisive reply hurled a hand grenade into the crowd. One man and a girl of 9 years were killed and a dozen other persons were wounded. When O'Hara was arrested it was discovered that he had in his possession a quantity of ammunition.

Guy Suite, 17 years old, son of Marshall Suite, near Chaptico, Md., was almost instantly killed near Mechanicsville shortly before noon yesterday when he was struck by the automobile of Charles A. Fox, of Baltimore, driven by Mr. Fox's chauffeur. Suite was riding a bicycle on the left side of the street when the accident occurred. The machine was unseen by him until it was nearly on him. He swerved the bicycle suddenly and at the same time the chauffeur, trying to avoid a collision, swung the car to the middle of the road, running into the boy.

Announcement was made at the University of Pennsylvania Museum, Philadelphia, of a receipt of a communication from Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, head of the Eckley B. Cox, Jr. expedition in Egypt describing the discovery of the "great-est of all palaces" occupied by the emperors of ancient Egypt. According to Dr. Fisher's letter the excavated palace contains the famed Biblical throne room where Moses and Aaron appeared before Pharaoh and demanded liberation of the Israelites.

Enraged because of practice of a strange sect known as the "Holy Rollers," a mob of men and boys, armed with guns, axes and clubs, raided the "church" of the order at Carlisle a mining town in the mountains near Gadsden, Ala., drove the worshippers away and razed the building. The Holy Rollers claim to talk with God in "strange tongues." A year ago one of the "preachers" permitted a snake to bite him to demonstrate to a crowd that even a reptile could not harm one of God's chosen children. The snake sank its fangs into the man's arm. Twenty-four hours later the man was dead.

Willis Deering, a bachelor, aged 86 years, died at his home, Sandy, Rappahannock county, seven miles east of Front Royal, Saturday. It was said that he was worth more than $1,000,000 and that he willed to his ten nieces and nephews $100,000 each.

Rev. W. Edward Callender has tendered his resignation to the vestry of Christ Episcopal Church, Kensington, Md. He has, he explained, received and would accept a call to the rectorate of a church in Norfolk.

UNIONS TO AID CARMEN

All in New York, With 800,000 Members. Pledged—Surface Lines Badly Crippled.

New York, Sept. 11.—An order recommending a general strike of New York's 800,000 trade unionists in sympathy with the transit strike which today affected New York, Bronx, and Queens counties, went out to the union heads today.

New York, Sept. 11.—Undivided moral and financial support of all trade unionists in Greater New York who, it is estimated, number 800,000, was pledged to the striking carmen here last night in resolutions adopted at a conference attended by Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor; officials of the New York Central Federated Union, the Brooklyn Central Labor Union and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees.

Mr. Gompers, who arrived here late yesterday morning, is expected to appeal from the New York Central Federation of Labor's statement in which he referred to the "efforts" of the heads of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which operates the subway and elevated railway lines, and officers of the various surface car roads affected by the strike "to crush the spirit of organization among the employees of these railroads."

Mr. Gompers asserted that the carmen were determined to "exercise their right to organize, the right to strike rationally and normally for the improvement of their conditions as employees of the companies, and to have submitted to a board of arbitration such differences which the committees of the employees and the representatives of the companies fail to adjust."
